Grade 4-6-A highly readable introduction to Teotihuacan. Arnold's succinct, well-written text relates the cultural and social history of this ancient civilization. Coupled with Hewett's fine full-color photographs, the narrative allows readers to walk the streets, climb the pyramids, and view the artistic splendor of a complex culture that profoundly influenced other Mexican and Central American peoples. Leonard Everett Fisher's Pyramid of the Sun, Pyramid of the Moon (Macmillan, 1988) includes a timeline and map to better orient readers, but Arnold provides more extensive cultural background, and Hewett's numerous, full-color photographs give life to the presentation. Cynthia M. Sturgis, Ledding Library, Milwaukee, OR Copyright 1994 Reed Business Information, Inc.

Gr. 4-7. Arnold and Hewett bring their expertise to Teotihuacan, the largest and most important city in Mexico and Central America for 800 years. Text and full-color photographs explore the ruins and extrapolate what life was like for the people who lived and worshiped in Teotihuacán. The book spends time describing the gods and goddesses; photos of deities in paintings, in stone (carved large and small), and even in mask form appear throughout, along with the ceremonial centers, including the Pyramid of the Sun and the Pyramid of the Moon. There is also discussion about the civilizations that came after, including the Toltecs and the Aztecs. Students doing reports will find this a good resource, but the arresting photographs will draw browsers in as well. Ilene Cooper

I love History and I have used this as a reference for most of my fiction books. I Love it!
